What excites you most about your research?

"I get excited by studying historical plant biogeography because it feels like time travel."

What was your biggest stumbling block during the research process?

"It was incredibly difficult collecting DUI data (1980-1990) from the 50 states. In the end, I managed to collect it from 26 states."

What was the biggest "Oops!" moment of your research?

"I once presented a talk in which I argued that a certain linguistic interpretation was completely wrong, only to have the following speaker politely disprove my thesis."
